Professional Experience

June 2009- Present

Westinghouse Electric Company

Visual Designer for Internal Communications

My work at Westinghouse over the past few years has been that of corporate design working directly with the Corporate Communications and Human Resources Groups. I have been the go-to Front End web designer on a number of internal projects as well as spearheading a future release of the Westinghouse web Identity. On a day to day basis I've been involved with creating brochures, invitations, banners, posters, logos, and animations. I also dealt directly with printers on tight time schedules.

Aug 2008- May 2009

Westinghouse Electric Company

Visual Designer for New Plant Training

During my time with the New Plant Training Group, I worked closely with Engineers and Trainers. My goal was to create compelling visuals and captivating interactions for their training courses. This hands on experience greatly improved their workflow and allowed for synergy between the Engineers and Students.

Feb 2008- July 2008

y[not]design

Front End Web Designer

During my time at y[not]design I worked closely with new and current clients to update their web projects. I was involved from conceptualizing the design of a new site as well as implementing the front end web coding of the completed project.

Jan 2008- May 2008

MatchPoint Marketing

Design Intern

I worked closely with the other designers on projects from creative to the printing press.

Jan 2005- Present

Pittsburgh Antique Radio Society

Freelance Designer

I continue to do freelance design for their group Identity. I have produced promotional material for the web, mail, and brochures.
